Courteey of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria

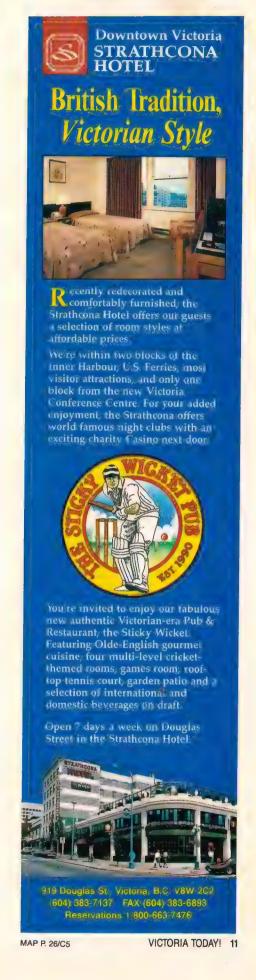

Victoria's Artist Extraordinaire

For three months this summer, the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria will present a major exhibition which will undoubtedly attract the attention it properly deserves.

"Emily Carr and her Canadian Contemporaries" will open on May 24th (Victoria Day) and run through August 25, 1991.

Although this fine Canadian artist died some 45 years ago, Emily Carr's work is still considered to be some of Canada's most important art.

Victoria's Artist Extraordinaire

Born in Victoria in 1871, the outward appearance of the Victorian child that was Emily Carr, was typical of an Englishman's offspring of that era: hair combed tightly back, rosy cheeks, serviceable dress with overlays of overalls and pinafores and hands folded neatly in her lap when in the presence of adults.

Emily Carr's childhood was governed by her stern father who was determined that his English background would be accurately and painstakingly reflected both in his offspring as well as his surroundings.

For all the stifled exterior, Emily Carr's inner feelings even as a small child, were richly coloured with fire and fervour. Her passion for the creations of nature, from the humblest of humans to the most majestic of Douglas firs reigning over the forests of Vancouver Island, flourished as she explored the countryside that surrounded her father's home near Fort Victoria.

As Emily Carr matured into womanhood, these emotions caught aflame as she began to sketch, paint and interpret what she saw and experienced of this island.

Her work, which runs the gamut of what critics have described as "from brooding to lyrical", tells the tale of Vancouver Island in a way which no other artist has done before or since her time. Where others have detailed their experiences in diaries, Emily Carr's work — both painted and written — casts her more accurately in the role of essayist.

As if to fulfill the biblical adage that "A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country", Victorians of her era ridiculed Emily Carr's artistry. At best, she was considered eccentric, at worst her role as an art teacher was scorned and her young pupils were withdrawn by their parents.

Nonetheless this unusual woman spent many years travelling in the wilderness of British Columbia, living in native villages, and experiencing the sound and fury, as well as the incredible patience of nature which surrounded her at every turn. Yet there was no-one among her contemporaries with whom she could share her new-found understanding.

Her paintings were the recipients of her profound emotion.

Her paintings were the recipients of her profound emotion.

It was not until Marius Barbeau, famed ethnologist of the National Museum in Ottawa, was himself travelling among the Pacific Northwest Coast tribes, that Emily Carr's work attracted national interest. The Indians told Barbeau about the

This visit was an overwhelming experience for Carr. For the first time, it seemed to her that she was not alone as an artist. Carr's association with the Group of Seven was strengthened through her friendship with Lawren Harris and the strong acceptance her work received in the East.

> By the mid 1930's, Emily Carr began to achieve the recognition and acclaim of the artistic world.

By the mid 1930's, Emily Carr began to achieve the recognition and acclaim of the artistic world. Still considered daring, innovative, a woman ahead of her time, Emily Carr let her work speak for her. And it did.

Her death in 1945 at the age of 74 has not in any way diminished the power of her portrayals; year after year succeeding generations are moved and inspired by Carr's artistry.

strange white woman who had lived among them, drawing and painting the details of their life.

Emily Carr was 44 years old when Barbeau found her in Victoria and purchased two of her 1912 paintings. She was 56 when she first went to Ottawa for the opening of a major exhibition of West Coast art featuring 26 of the paintings she had done in 1912. And it was then she was introduced to Lawren Harris, A.Y. Jackson and the other Canadian artists who comprised the famed Group of Seven.

TODAY'S FINE DINING GUIDE

"WHERE SHALL WE EAT TONIGHT?"

One of life's little luxuries to be cherished, a luxury which should certainly contribute to our hoard of happy holiday memories, is—not having to do the dishes!

Well, really, look at it this way: we "eat dinner" at home, but when we are on vacation, we "dine out!"

Acknowledge the difference, and revel in the opportunity to sample new gustatory delights. If the number and variety of eating establishments in Creater Victoria is anything to judge by, you could correctly conclude that Victorians take "dining out" seriously.

We invite you to sayour the flavour, as it were, and anticipate your meal time adventures as carefully as you planned the rest of your vacation accommodation, attractions and activities.

Consider this: Victoria is surrounded by ocean waters teeming with scallops, oysters, crab and . . . salmon!

Pacific scallops, B.C. salmon, shrimp and Dungeness crabmeat combine to make an enticing seafood platter. Photographed at Rattenbury's at the Crystal Garden.

Seafood then becomes a specialty of many of Victoria's finest restaurants. Smoked, marinated, poached, smothered, stuff and barbecued. Consider too, the innumerable unpolluted fresh water lakes on Vancouver Island. This spellstrout! Rainbow, Dolly Varden, so fresh you can taste the difference.

Victoria is also equated with tradition. Expect therefore to dine on Sir Loin of Beef served in a medieval English atmosphere by serving lads and wenches in 16th century attire.

Ethnic restaurants abound in this town. Plan to experience the cuisine of another country-Vietnam, Greece, China, Japan, Israel, Germany, Holland, India...the world's your oyster, you might say.

Where Victoria is not surrounded by sea, it's "fenced in" by farmland, which means fresh produce, seasonal berry and tree fruits (including kiwifruit, which is commercially grown on the Saanich Peninsula), daily deliveries of fresh eggs and farm-grown poultry and meat.

Are you getting excited? Good! You have a yen for the exotic, you say? You can feast on floral salad or succulent sea cucumber. Are exotic desserts your guilty secret? Come out of the closet-we have restaurants which specialize in these toothsome tidbits.

And, speaking of tradition, tongue firmly in cheek, we Victorians pride ourselves on being more English than the English, which means that when it comes to afternoon tea, we simply are the best!

JUST THE FACTS

VICTORIA

INFORMATION AT A GLANCE

POPULATION - The population of the City of Victoria, is 71,190. The term Greater Victoria refers to the four "core" municipalities including Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich. The latter three surround the City of Victoria at its east, west and north boundaries respectively. The population of Greater Victoria is estimated at 196.890.

CLIMATE — The average mean temperature for May in Victoria is 11°C. (52°F.). Protected by the Olympic Mountains, Victoria enjoys a mild, almost Mediterranean climate.

Our Spring season is early and mild. Summers are warm and dry with temperatures ranging between 15°C and 25°C (62°F and 76°F).

KILOMETERS, KILOGRAMS AND OTHER METRIC MYSTERIES - Here are some basic conversions which will assist you:

A kilometer (km) is 5/8 of a mile. A kilogram (kg) is 2.2 lbs.

A meter is approximately 39 inches. A liter is a little more than 1 quart; 4.5 liters = 1 gallon. 1 hectare (of land) is about 2.2 acres. 250 millilitres (mls) equals 1 cup liquid (8 ozs.)

GRATUITIES - Tips are not usually included in the bill. If you would like to reward someone for good service, 10% to 15% of the total is usual.

CLOTHING - A light raincoat is useful in Spring, comfortable walking shoes are a must if you're planning on sight seeing. Evening wear depends on your activity. Victorians dress up for very special events, but most people are fairly casual, so suit yourself. Be comfortable! Spring in Victoria can be so variable that it's a good idea to "layer" your clothing. Then, if it's too warm, you can always remove a sweater or pullover.

DRIVING — Two important things to remember: In British Columbia buckled seatbelts are the rule; and - do not drink and drive. Our laws and penalties for persons apprehended while driving under the influence are among the most severe in Canada.

Of course, you will have many more questions . that's why we are inviting you to visit our Visitor Information Centre where our friendly welltrained counsellors are eager to do whatever they can to make your stay with us all you hoped for. They have information about what to see, where to go, where to stay, where to eat, what to buy, history, nature tours, art galleries and so on and so on . . . The Information Centre is easy to find. Imagine yourself standing on the lawn in front of the Empress Hotel looking out at the harbour. Turn your gaze slightly to the right and you'll be looking at the tall tower of Tourism Victoria's Information

What? It's raining and you don't want to go outside? Just call the Centre at 382-2127 and ask them what to do in Victor ia when it's raining!

Victoria

How It All Began

Although Victoria's appearance is that of staid antiquity, its history is comparatively recent and not at all staid.

t began, as did so many Canadian cities and towns, with the Hudson's Bay Fur Trading Company. Its Chief Factor, James Douglas, was looking for a site on which to build a new fort and trading post for the company.

The Indian name for the area on which Fort Victoria was built was "Camosack" and James Douglas declared the area to be a "perfect Eden".

The date was 1842, the fort was established and named Victoria for the Queen of England, Empress of much of the world in those days.

Although the entire island had been home for thousands of years to the first nations of Salish, Nootka, Kwakuitl and Nimpkish peoples, Victoria was the first European settlement.

In 1846, the Oregon Treaty established the 49th parallel right to the Pacific Ocean as the border between British and American territories. Conveniently, Victoria functioned as headquarters for the British in these days of territorial dispute.

1849 - A Crown Colony

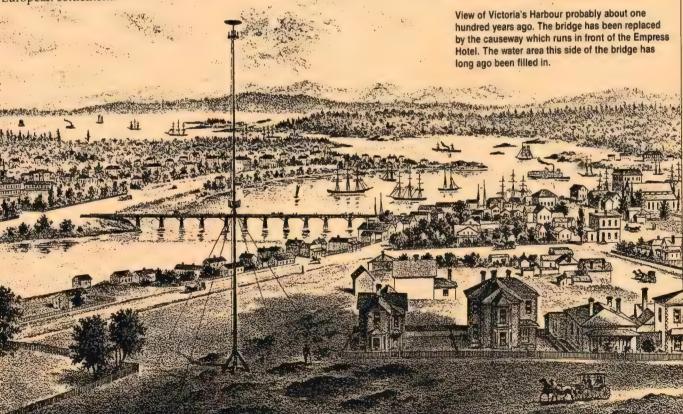

In 1849 Britain declared Vancouver Island to be a Crown Colony under protection and administration of the Hudson's Bay Company. Their mandate was to encourage and assist settlement in and around Fort Victoria.

In fact, things were rather slow to get going although some farms were established, providing a ready supply of fresh food for the Fort. As Victoria's mild climate began to be understood and appreciated, more settlers were attracted to the area. Roads began to be constructed, providing more employment opportunities.

1858 - Gold Fever

What really put Victoria on the map was the discovery of gold on the mainland of Canada in the Thompson and Fraser River areas.

On a quiet Sunday in late April, 1858, the SS "Commodore" anchored in Victoria's Harbour and disgorged some 450 would-be gold miners. Immediately the small town was over-populated and the resident population couldn't believe its good luck at this influx of ready customers for food and other supplies.

In succeeding days, more and more gold-hungry prospectors landed. Although many had come from the California goldfields, others were from eastern Canada and from as far away as Europe and China.

Many of the Chinese arrivals stayed on and founded Victoria's Chinatown. They brought their relatives over and within a year or two a school, temple and benevolent society were all established. Chinatown flourished and today is most attractive and bustling part of the old

1862 - Canada's First Western City

By 1862, Victoria had grown sufficiently to be pronounced Canada's first western city. Its first newspaper, the "Victoria Gazette", started in 1858. Three other newspapers followed quickly, among them, the "Colonist" whose name survives today in the "Times-Colonist".

The Colonist publisher, William Smith, had changed his name to the more exotic Amor de Cosmos, "lover of the universe". He became as colourful as his name, acquiring high political leadership in British Columbia.

The harbour just west of the city in Esquimalt became an important rendezvous and dockyard for the British fleet and remains so today.

Following the collapse of the gold rush, Victoria lapsed into quietude again, although it was firmly established as a Farming, logging, construction and fishing all played their part in the steady development of Victoria, serving the surrounding area and catering to coastal merchant vessels.

1870's – A Distinct Society

As wives and families swelled the population, the city took on a more genteel air and, by the 1870's, a distinct society was enjoying a variety of imported recreational activities such as cricket, lawn tennis, lawn bowling, Christmas Balls and summer garden parties. It was all very British and very proper.

In 1897, a glitteringly grand party was held to celebrate the opening of the new Parliament Buildings and to honor the 60th Anniversary of the reign of Queen

Not surprisingly, the Empress Hotel and Craigdarroch Castle (built by the million- many Canadians to move to Victoria to aire coalminer Robert Dunsmuir) were the centre of most social activities.

One event, however, which was extremely popular with all residents was the Annual Chinese New Year Celebrations on Fisgard Street at which everyone marvelled at the colourful dragons, ooohed at the fireworks and tasted Chinese delicacies sold by street vendors.

With a population today of 71,000+. the City is still not large by international standards. Even with the surrounding municipalities of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich swelling the population of Greater Victoria to nearly 197,000 we are still small by comparison with other important Canadian cities.

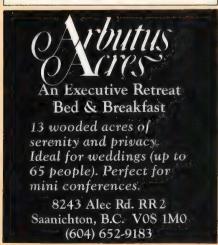

The Ambiance of Victoria

It is the ambiance of Victoria, its mild climate and the warmth of its people that today draws visitors from all over the world

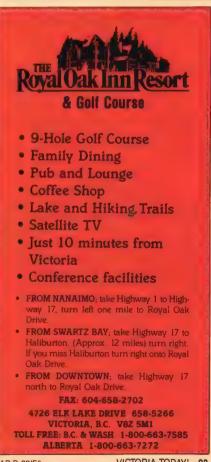

Although forestry, farming, fishing and construction are still major industries affecting the city, tourism is rapidly becoming one of the city's and indeed, Vancouver Island's, most important facets of our economy.

The same attributes have convinced spend their retirement and this, too, is an important aspect of Victoria's well-being.

MAJOR ATTRACTIONS

VICTORIA

ONE OF THE REASONS that Victoria recently was awarded the Conde Nast accolade "One of the Great Cities of the Western World" was the number and variety of visitor attractions, many of which are open year round.

Miniature World - An extraordinary universe of the very small-people from all eras-all caught up in boats, trains, famous battles and a host of other human situations. The greatest little show on earth. In the Empress Hotel, 649 Humboldt Street. 385-9731.

D. T. OD, EF, WA.

Fable Cottage Estate & World Class Gardens — An enchanting oceanfront home and 31/2 acres of spectacular themed floral gardens. One of Canada's world class attractions. Licensed Garden Tea Pavilion. Located off Hwy 17 on Cordova Bay Rd. Open daily at 9 a.m. 'til dusk. Served hourly by City Bus #75.

OD, TN, P, EF, WA, W, B.

Crystal Garden — Used to be a popular swimming pool and dance pavilion years ago. Now a glass-enclosed tropical garden, filled with exotic plants, an aviary, flamboyant flamingos and the world's smallest monkeys! You can enjoy an excellent afternoon tea on the upper level which overlooks a lawn bowling green. At street level are a number of boutiques and the famous Rattenbury's Restaurant. Easily found, it's right across from the Convention Centre on Douglas Street. Phone 381-1213.

Olde England Inn & Ann Hathaway's Cottage - An elegant Tudor mansion set in the midst of a 16th Century English village where you find replicas of William Shakespeare's birthplace and Ann Hathaway's thatched cottage. Step right out of the bustling 20th Century into the Elizabethan period of romance, chivalry and candlelight.

OD, TN, P, B.

Butchart Gardens - World-famous attraction, open every day of the year. Evening entertaining and fireworks in summer. A true botanical delight. Over 50 acres of gardens, including Italian Garden, Rose Garden, Japanese Garden, Sunken Garden and greenhouse display. Fully Licenced Restaurant and Snacks, Gift Shop. For recorded message, call 652-5256.

OD, TN, P, EF, WA, B.

Royal London Wax Museum - right on the waterfront, it's the building with the Greek columns, across from the Parliament Buildings. More than 200 life-size wax models of figures both historic and contemporary plus dioramas of The Last Supper created by Mme. Josephine Tussaud are in this exhibition. Don't miss the Chamber of Horrors! Guided commentaries available.

OD, EF, WA, DT.

Sealand of the Pacific - This will get your seal of approval and you'll have a whale of a time. Pardon our puns, but Sealand offers enjoyable and educational entertainment for young and old with killer whales, seals and sealions. Even the seagulls get into the act. Located in Oak Bay on Beach Drive. Telephone 598-3373.

TN, B, OD, P, EF, WA.

Undersea Gardens - Adjacent to the Wax Museum on the harbourfront. You can literally walk down to the ocean floor to observe marine life. A scuba diving show is a feature of this unique underwater theatre. Telephone 382-5717 for information 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. DT, OD, EF.

Visitors to Vancouver Island who explore the Peninsula, often talk about the sense of contentment and tranquility that seems to pervade the area.

Nevertheless, the Town of Sidney will enjoy a "bit of a bustle" this summer as it highlights a number of centennial celebratory events. (See box)

Some things to enjoy during your visit to the Saanich Peninsula could include: The Sidney Museum (at the Eastern end of Beacon Avenue), the Aviation Museum (Willingdon Road), Port Sidney (marina complex at the Eastern end of Beacon Avenue), the Historical Artifacts Society (east of Hwy. 17 at Island View Road), the Pioneer Museum (Saanichton Fairgrounds), Butchart Gardens (Brentwood Bay), Elk Lake, John Dean Park, Sidney Spit, Institute of Ocean Sciences (Patricia Bay), the Astro-Physical Observatory (W. Saanich Road), Pacific Geoscience Centre (W. Saanich Road), a plethora of country pubs, gourmet and family restaurants, and merchants who own and operate their retail businesses.

Outdoor activities available include hiking, biking, horseback and trailriding, canoeing, kayaking, sailing, rowing, swimming, windsurfing and truly excellent diving.

1991 could be the best year yet to get to know the Saanich Peninsula.

HOSE TRAVELLERS WHO are really in the know, however, plan several days of their vacation to explore the rest of Vancouver Island. They don't call this "the big island" for nothing, you know.

Those travellers who are really in the know, however, plan several days of their vacation to explore the rest of Vancouver Island. They don't call this "the big island" for nothing, you know.

There are sights and adventures enough for everyone when you travel west or north of Victoria.

Take the road west to Sooke, Jordan River and Port Renfrew. In less than an hour, you'll be deep in the heart of the Southwest coast and driving through farm lands, logging areas and along dramatic shorelines. Pick up maps at any Information Centre along the way. There are beaches to walk, nature trails to follow, hiking trails graded from easy to difficult, villages to wander around, teahouses perched on bluffs overlooking the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Highway No. 1 takes you north, first over the Malahat Mountain which has a number of viewpoints that will have you reaching for your camera. On a clear day, you can see, well, not quite forever, but certainly over the Saanich Peninsula to the state of Washington, U.S.A. That's Mount Baker on the horizon, about a hundred miles away as the crow flies.

Mill Bay, Whippletree Junction, Duncan (the City of Totems), Crofton, Chemainus, Ladysmith and Nanaimo are some of the communities through which you will pass — each with its own distinctive character and stories to tell.

Most of these towns and others you will discover as you travel further north are built on logging or mining, with fishing also playing a role in the economic stability of the area. Now, tourism is increasingly important to the livelihood of the residents.

It's a good idea to get yourself a guidebook to Vancouver Island. Your travelling companions can take it in turns to read the commentary on each landmark you encounter.

If you are just touring, you may want to spend a night at Nanaimo or at Parksville. Both offer excellent accommodation and good restaurants (from fast food to truly elegant).

Now you are at a crossroads: If you leave Highway 1 and turn west on to Highway 4, you can visit Port Alberni, the Salmon Fishing Capital of the World, and then, after a drive past Sproat Lake and through Sutton Pass, arrive at the West Coast with its wonderful Pacific Rim National Park and the charming villages of Ucluelet and Tofino.

If you decide to continue North, you can visit the lovely Comox Valley with the Forbidden Plateau towering above the land to the West and the sea and wide sandy beaches tempting you on the eastern side.

Courtenay and Comox are hospitable towns with good amenities. Fishing, boating and beachcombing are options you may want to consider.

you may want to consider.

Head North again to Campbell River, which like Port Alberni, also claims the title of the Salmon Fishing Capital of the World. Campbell River is the place, too, for wonderful fresh water fishing in nearby lakes and streams as well as being famed for its fishing charter until it finally ends at Port Hardy. Here, if you wish, you can board the B.C. Ferry "Queen of the North" and cruise the famous Inland Passage to Prince Rupert on the mainland.

The road heads North yet again, passing through small logging towns

Of course, you could have headed west from Campbell River to visit the town of Gold River and its famous caves. And then boarded the Uchuck III for a cruise around Friendly Cove in Nootka Sound. That's where Captain James Cook was the first European to step ashore on to what is now British Columbia.

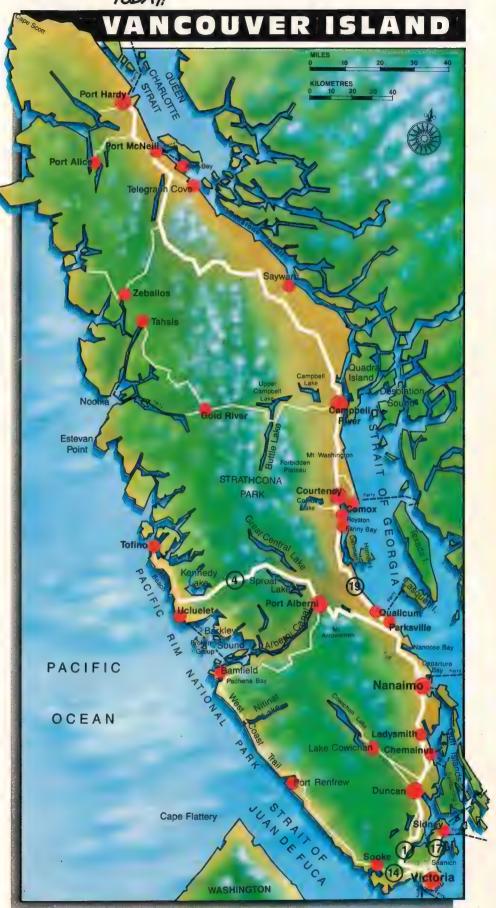

Along the route of your travels, you will encounter numerous attractions, museums, parks and beaches, native Indian artifacts, art galleries and logging displays. You can take a steam train ride, view the murals at Chemainus, the 60 totem poles at Duncan, canoe the Great Central Lake, visit any one of dozens of summer festivals, stroll through mountain meadows strewn with wild flowers, sail in a stiff breeze at Maple Bay, visit an active logging area, windsurf on Nitinat Lake, hike the West Coast Trail, call in at the coal museum in Nanaimo, make time for the music festival at Courtenay, fish from the famous pier at Campbell River, cruise down the Alberni Inlet on the MV "Lady Rose", catch a motocross event at Holberg, build sandcastles on the beach at Parksville, go on a whalewatching expedition from Ucluelet, watch eagles soaring overhead, and great blue herons standing like Chinese statuary at the edge of the tide.

You can even pan for gold or watch an authentic Cowichan Indian sweater being put together.

The "Big Island" has all this and much more. But those who really try to find out what Vancouver Island is all about will discover a special reward. and that is a real appreciation of the environment that exists here. It's the stuff that treasured memories are made of.

"Coming soon to a theatre near you". It's a phrase you've heard lots of times. We're going to take a small variation on that theme and preview some of the attractions which are going to make Victoria a super place to enjoy a holiday this year.

here're lots of excellent reasons to book your vacation in Victoria; Music '91 for instance. B.C.'s Year of Music will be the greatest extravaganza in Canada since EXPO '86. Many of the world's best entertainers will be featured in some of the most spectacular settings in Victoria. From Grand Opera to the Grand Ole Opry, from blues to bluegrass, rock 'n roll to ragtime, dixieland, everybody's music will be heard here in 1991.

The Victoria Symphony under its Music Director, Maestro Peter McCoppin, celebrates its 50th Anniversary this year. A full slate of concerts and special performances are listed in our "This Month in Victoria" column on page 8.

The merry month of May is highlighted by two major events: the May 24th long Weekend (it used to be a holiday to celebrate Queen Victoria's birthday) and Swiftsure: the annual sailboat classic that brings out the very best (and zaniest) of Victoria's nautical heritage.

In May, too, whale-watching around Victoria begins in earnest. Expeditions of two to three hours' duration can be arranged to view Orca in its natural habitat.

June, the month of roses, when Butchart Gardens is perhaps at the height of glorious technicolour splendour, is also the month when the folks in very British Oak Bay, tweak aside the tweed curtain to invite everyone to the annual Oak Bay Tea Party. Festivities take place at Willows Beach and are presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Tweedy. Teacup Race, anyone?

In June, too, the 5th Annual Victoria International Boat Races are held in the city's Inner Harbour and at nearby Elk Lake. The world's top rowers compete in this series which is billed as one of the five top rowing events in the world.

Later in the month, the 22nd Annual Gorge Canoe Regatta makes its annual splash, with both serious and fun races along the popular waterway.

Canada Day celebrations throughout Greater Victoria are held on July 1st, mixing traditional pomp and ceremony with festive fun, cake-cutting, flagraising, picnics and carnival-like parties everywhere.

Band concerts are held regularly in Beacon Hill Park and at the Fort Rodd Hill National Park all summer long. Weekend newspapers tell where, when and who.

Summer theatre at the University of Victoria's Phoenix Theatre is an annual "must-see"; both Victoria's McPherson and Belfry Theatres mount special summer productions that manage to be sellout hits each year.

A special summer highlight each July and August is the Victoria International Festival of Music. For six weeks, a series of approximately 30 concerts are held nightly at various venues, featuring some of the world's most highly-acclaimed classical musicians.

And July would not be July without the world-famous All Sooke Day, at which loggers from around the world meet to compete in a variety of hair-raising logging sports. A salmon barbecue is a popular feature of this event, as easy to take as falling off a log!

Sooke is also the locale for Vancouver Island's largest juried art show, this year Fine Arts '91, exhibiting the work of over one hundred of the Island's finest artists and artisans.

An event which attracts both residents and visitors each year, is the First Peoples' Festival. The site is on the grounds of the Royal British Columbia Museum. Vancouver Island's native peoples dance, drum, tell stories and serve fragrant and flavourful barbecued salmon for three days of friendship and celebration. Canoe rides in ornately-carved dugout canoes are a popular feature of this spectacular event. And the spirit of friendship prevails with visitors joining in tribal dances that have existed for a thousand years.

Summer Theatre Productions

Winding up the summer is the Classic Boat Festival held annually in the Inner Harbour on the Labour Day weekend. This is very much a "people event" with hundreds of classic vessels, large and small, all shipshape and Bristol fashion competing for a variety of titles and awards. A sailpast, harbour races and afloat and ashore entertainment are delightful features of the festival.

September is also the month of the Fringe Festival. For nearly two weeks, street entertainers, actors, dancers and musicians entertain at various outdoor locations in the old town.

In October, it's British Fortnight when Victorians enjoy a good laugh at themselves and their supposed connections with the Old Country. Rule Britannia and all that!

November brings us out for the October - Goldstream, salmon spawning symphony, the opera and theatre, trips out to Goldstream Park to watch the salmon spawning and down to Dallas Road to watch the first storm of the season.

November also finds Victoria and its environs awash in arts and crafts shows. Local newspapers list times and locales. Opportunities for highest quality artistry and workmanship; one-of-a-kind bargains can be found too by shoppers with sharp eyes.

Perhaps there aren't quite as many visitors around Victoria in December as there are in June, but spirits are high with Sing-Along Messiah, Nutcracker Suite, and a genuine British Pantomime for your entertainment. And oh yes, Santa Claus comes to town on his sleigh although we have to admit, it's not very often that he encounters a White Christmas in Victoria.

Visitors, vacations and Victoria — they go well together, don't you think?

The welcome mat is out — all year long.

B ORN TO SHOP? OR DO YOU CRINGE AT THE very thought? No matter! whichever category you fit into, Victoria merchants try their best to make it a happy experience for you.

From postcards to paintings, chocolate to crystal, fabric to fine china, Victoria's shopping opportunities are both plentiful and superb.

Our shopping areas are also compact, the selection of both domestic and imported goods is excellent and (especially if you come from South of the 49th Parallell), you'll be pleasantly surprised at the bargain prices available in many fine stores.

THE SHOPHOUND'S DELIGHT

Government Street — Here, in the first few blocks of the downtown shopping area, is where one finds the best of the city's British imports — top quality bone china, leaded crystal, woollens, men's and women's clothing, shoes, fabrics and toiletries. Plus all kinds of gifts for the folks back home — souvenirs, T-shirts and candy.

Fort Street — Best known to shoppers as "Antique Row", Fort Street is indeed a magnet for those persons with a penchant for collecting things.

Most of this collectors' Mecca is concentrated on Fort Street between Blanshard and Cook Streets. There you'll find stamps, coins, estate jewellery, rare books, antique crystal, china, furniture, paintings and other works of art. As you leave the downtown core and proceed East on Fort Street, you'll encounter several tastetempting bakeries along the way and a number of fine restaurants, especially in the "700 block".

Lower Johnson Street — Often referred to as the "Old Town" area, Johnson Street is home to some of the best of Victoria's handsomely refurbished emporia. The stores are colourful and eclectic with a sort of quirky identity uniquely their own. Recycled high fashion junk shares the street with exquisite hand-fashioned jewellery from Asia and the finest in ski and hiking apparel. Expect the unexpected along with splendid arts and crafts shops, some excellent restaurants. And don't miss the multi-levelled Market Square with its row upon row of specialty shops, a pleasant courtyard with wooden benches from which you can survey the lively scene which surrounds you.

Chinatown — Just two blocks over from Johnson Street to Fisgard, one arrives in Chinatown. Enter through the spectacular red, gold and black Gate of Harmonious Interests into a world of oriental art and treasures, scattered among stores which sell the more basic necessities of life, oriental foods, barbecued meats and ancient herbal remedies for what ails you. Take time to browse in the shops ... you will revel in a new experience. There are also some really worthwhile galleries on this fascinating street as well as a number of restaurants and cafes serving excellent Chinese fare from Canton, Hunan and Szechuan provinces.

Oak Bay — Just a ten-minute drive from downtown, you'll find yourself "Behind the Tweed Curtain". This is an affectionate term for the Municipality of Oak Bay which adjoins the City of Victoria's eastern border. In Oak Bay, considered the "most British" of Canadian municipalities, you'll find a wonderful array of boutiques and specialty stores on Oak Bay Avenue, as well as an authentic British tearoom. Designer clothing, English toffees, fish and chips stores, new age toys and games, crafts and jewellery and much, much more, as they say.

SHOPPING MALLS — Victoria boasts 4 large shopping malls including the brandnew Eaton Centre on Government Street downtown. Four large floors filled with a variety of stores, the Eaton Centre has already established itself as a popular people place.

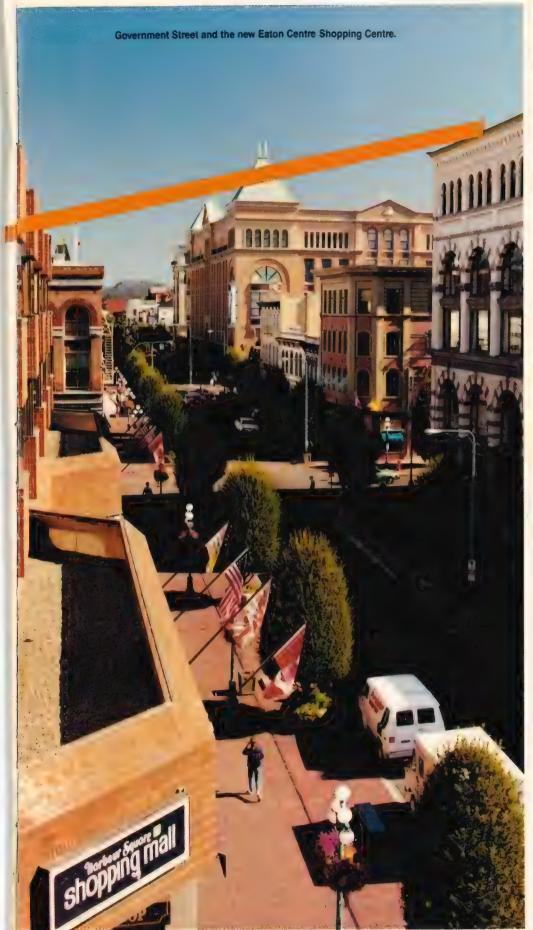

THE HILLSIDE MALL is noted for its colourful market replete with foodstuffs, fancy baking, and an imaginative collection of boutiques.

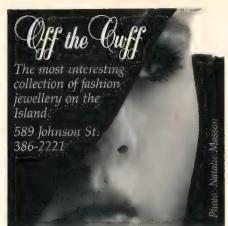

OVER AT MAYFAIR, fashion leads the way while the centre is anchored at Woodward's Department Store.

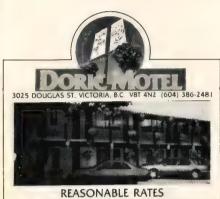

AT TILLICUM, it's selection, style and a smile — only minutes away from downtown.

If there is some specialty item which you would like to obtain but have difficulty in finding, ask the counsellors at Tourism Victoria's Information Centre to assist you.

VICTORIA'S FRIENDLIEST MOTEL

N ANY MAJOR CITY. there is a shopping area which is known for its exclusive boutiques, unusually fine quality imported and domestically manufactured goods and absolutely the best in service to their clientele.

In New York, it would be Fifth Avenue. In Los Angeles, you would head for Rodeo Drive. In Vancouver, it's Robson Street.

Victoria is no exception. Some of our finest stores can be found on and adjacent to lower Government Street, just a pebble toss from our best-known landmark, the Empress Hotel.

Four of Victoria's most interesting retail establishments are located in this area. With their commitment to the highest standards, they would be right at home in any of the shopping areas in the cities mentioned.

ROGERS' CHOCOLATES "quite possibly the best chocolates in the world" is a remark often heard when chocolate lovers expound the virtues of Rogers' Victoria Cream, an incredibly delicious confection whose recipe has remained a secret for over a century.

THERE are fifteen flavours of Victoria Creams including both plain and nut: filled creams; they also make chocolate. almond brittle, mint wafers and many other delicacies. All are made from the very finest ingredients and covered in: a rich dark chocolate. Why not drop into their shop, located in the same building since 1916 and indulge yourself!

Your plans to "do Government Street" in a morning will certainly be demolished when you set foot in THE QUEST and its companion gallery, GALLERY OF THE ARCTIC.

The array of exquisite artistic items and the display arrangement in this building will cause you to linger, long after it's time to move on!

Here will be found a unique and also one of the largest selections of pottery, ceramics, jewellery, graphics, pewter, batiks, weaving and sculpture of metal, wood, jade and soapstone to be found anywhere in British Columbia. Established in 1885, Rogers' Chocolates have been mailed all over the world, including Buckingham Palace.

The atmosphere is low-key, leaving you to browse to your heart's content, but efficient service is close at hand when you are ready for it.

The staff is happy to share their knowledge of and their pride in the work of their fellow Canadians.

THE GALLERY OF THE ARCTIC was founded by The Quest for one primary purpose: to further the work of Inuit artists of northern Canada. The Gallery is well-known by North American collectors for the quality of the work displayed. It is also one of the registered galleries chosen by the Eskimo Art Council for important exhibitions.

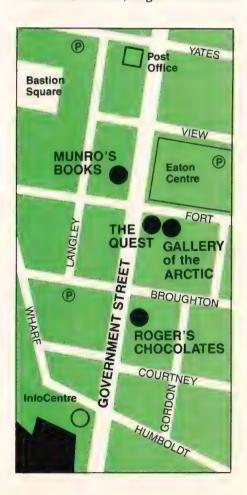

It is truly a wonderful place to visit, browse, experience and enjoy. The gallery staff are all very knowledgeable about the pieces displayed and will be happy to share their knowledge with

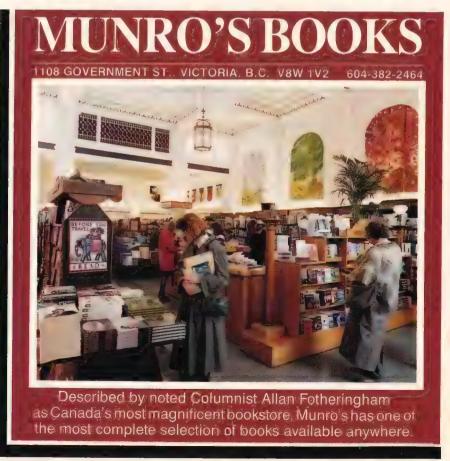

MUNRO'S BOOKS has been named by Canadian writer Allan Fotheringham as "Canada's most magnificent bookstore."

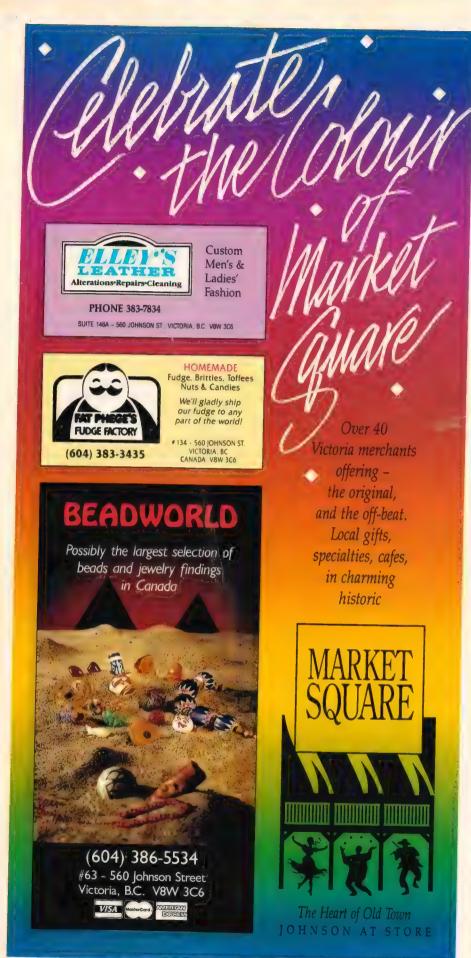

For book lovers, Munro's is sheer heaven, with its vast selection of the most newly-published and best books. All imaginable categories are available, and arranged for convenience and comfortable browsing.

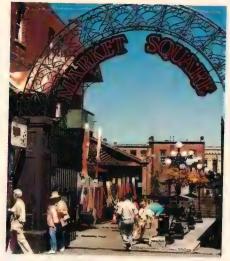

Many first-time visitors to Munro's take the time to enjoy the unusual and impressive decor of this establishment. The owner's wife, well-known fibre artist, Carol Sabiston, produced the stunningly-beautiful fabric banners which adorn the walls. The building, formerly a bank, is of the Victorian era, and has been restored and refurnished to a style uniquely suitable to its present Munro's staff always know just where to find that book you've been meaning to buy, no matter how esoteric the subject matter! Book lovers, don't miss this one!

Olde Towne Shopping in Market Square

arket Square's original brick buildings are over a hundred years old, having been constructed in the 1880s during a period of growth and prosperity in Victoria. Lumber, coal, sealskins and salmon were in great demand and shiploads of these products left from Victoria regularly bound for the world's marketplaces.

Unlike many other heritage attractions in Victoria, Market Square could never be construed as being a "bit of Olde England". Rather, it was the location for more earthy happenings — ship's chandlers, foundries, opium houses, manufacturers, hotels and saloons, and a scattering of shops.

Frequented by sailors, Indians, miners, Chinese immigrants and what were euphemistically referred to as "tarnished doves", Market Square must have been both lively and interesting to visit in its heyday.

Today, it's still lively and still interesting. Market Square is a shopping centre, a playground, a performer's stage, a meeting place, an artist's inspiration, a backdrop for a solitary flute-player and a lover's trysting place — all rolled into one fascinating large courtyard surrounded on all four sides by 3 tiers of unusual boutiques, shops, ethnic restaurants and even a small theatre.

The delicious aromas of Mexican or Middle Eastern dishes mingle with the irresistible scent of fresh fudge. Explore, shop and linger on ... a very pleasant afternoon will be gone before you know it.

FROM COSMOPOLITAN TO CONVENIENT...

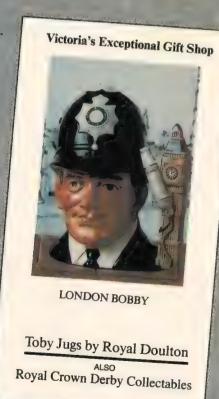

All the sophistication ... all the flair ... all the friendly service that makes for delightfully pleasant shopping trips.

From long experience of catering to the wants and needs of visitors, Victoria retailers know that value and quality are of paramount importance to their customers. The businesses advertising in this section are committed to superior quality and excellent value.

Their staff are knowledgeable and well-trained; their merchandise is well-chosen and attractively displayed.

You can shop at these establishments with complete confidence.

Heritage on the Hoof error if they knew little about our city before coming here, visitors to Victoria often say they can feel a sense of history in the architecture and the layout of the city.

Now vacationers can, if they wish, take a deeper look at Victoria's past to gain an inkling of what life was like in this city a century (or much more) ago.

"Heritage on the Hoof" offers an opportunity to visit each of several heritage attractions free of charge during the weekend of May 3 to 5 only. Each of the properties mentioned below is open to the public at intervals throughout the year. However, during Heritage on the Hoof weekend, special events are added to enhance these intriguing glimpses into the past.

If you're really ambitious, you could visit them all in one day, but to give you time to enjoy and digest the unique flavour of each one, spread your visits out over two or three days.

CRAIGDARROCH CASTLE

1050 Joan Crescent

 Built by coal baron Sir Robert Dunsmuir for his Scottish wife, the castle took three years to complete. Dunsmuir died before it was completed. With four floors and 20,000 square feet, the castle is well maintained and furnished. The cost of building Craigdarroch was $200,000 (about $4 million in today's currency) but that was before GST! In fact, it would cost many times that sum to build it today. Heritage Weekend Special Events include Billiards Demonstrations 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, May 4 and Sunday, May 5. The Victoria College Alumni Association will have displays depicting the years when the castle was used as a school. May 3, 4 and 5, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Storyteller Penny Draper welcomes children on Saturday and Sunday, May 3 and 4 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Victoria Quiltmakers Guild will have quilting demonstrations on May 3, 4, and 5 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

CRAIGFLOWER FARMHOUSE & SCHOOLHOUSE

Admirals and Craigflower Roads, Victoria • B.C.'s oldest restored farmhouse is a superb example of 1850's Georgian style architecture and decor. Across the street is the schoolhouse, the oldest school building in Western Canada, still standing on its original site.

Heritage weekend Special Events: Tours of the Schoolhouse and Farmhouse with special kitchen baking demonstrations and piano programme in the morning room, May 4 at 1 p.m. (free admission); Agricultural practices and kitchen garden demonstrations. Regular Hours: May 19, 20, 26 - 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Small admission charge).

FORT RODD HILL NATIONAL HISTORIC PARK

603 Fort Rodd Hill

 A colourful part of Canada's historic heritage 15 minutes from downtown Victoria. Exhibits, friendly staff, a picnic area and acres of beautiful grounds where the deer (but not the antelope) roam. Add to this the old stone fort with its scary dungeons and the very photographable Fisgard Lighthouse and you have the makings of a pleasant afternoon. Heritage Weekend Special Event: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 3, 4 and 5 - 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. complete guided tour with knowledgeable guides. Includes Fisgard Lighthouse and the Fort. Each tour takes about 11/2 hours. Free.

HELMCKEN HOUSE

Adjacent to Royal B.C. Museum

 This is the oldest house in B.C. open to the public. Former home of Dr. J.S. Helmcken, pioneer doctor and first Speaker in the Vancouver Island Legislative Assembly. The home is filled with relics illustrating his fascinating career, including one of Canada's finest nineteenth century medical collections. 1991 marks the Golden Jubilee of Helmcken House as a Provincial heritage attraction. Heritage Weekend Special Event: May 3 (free admission) Tours by costumed interpreters and piano programme in the parlour. N SATURDAY, MAY 4TH, AT the 50th Anniversary Gala, when the last thundering chords of Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4 in "F minor" die away, to be replaced by the thunderous applause of an appreciative audience, members of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra under their Music Director Peter McCoppin and their General Manager, Stephen Smith, will have much cause for celebration.

Their Gala Performance at the Royal

Theatre on May 4, 1991 marks 50 years of classical music by this immensely popular orchestra.

While some of those years were characterized by struggles to stay alive financially, this 50th year has been remarkable for both its musical and financial successes. All concerned with the orchestra deserve the congratulations and thanks of thousands of music lovers who have enjoyed their performances over a period spanning half a century.

Emily Carr

The Art Gallery's Summer exhibit, caringly and meticulously assembled by Chief Curator Nicholas Tuele, displays 35 of the artist's finest works, plus sketches, notebooks and photographs.

The acclaimed author of several books, Carr's way with words is an incisive and insightful as her paintings. Her "House of All Sorts" and "The Book of Small" are classics in their essays and sketches of life in Victoria during Carr's era.

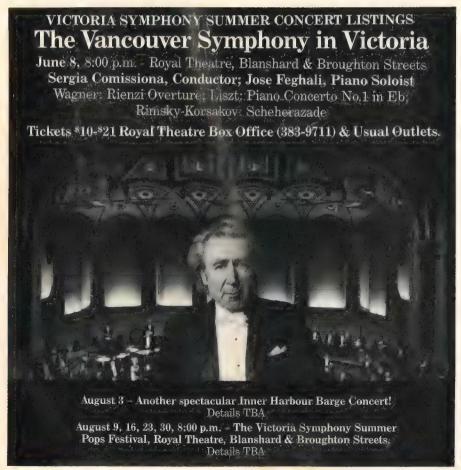

That Carr was an "artist's artist" is evident from a list of some of her friends: Lawren Harris, A.Y. Jackson, Statira Frame and Jack Shadbolt are four major Canadian artists who were contemporaries of Carr. Fine examples of their work are an integral part of this AGGV exhibition.

Statira Frame was a personal friend of Emily Carr and visited her in Victoria on occasion. Her work shows a love of warmth and colour and offers an interesting contrast in her studies of West Coast life when compared with the passion of much of Emily Carr's work.

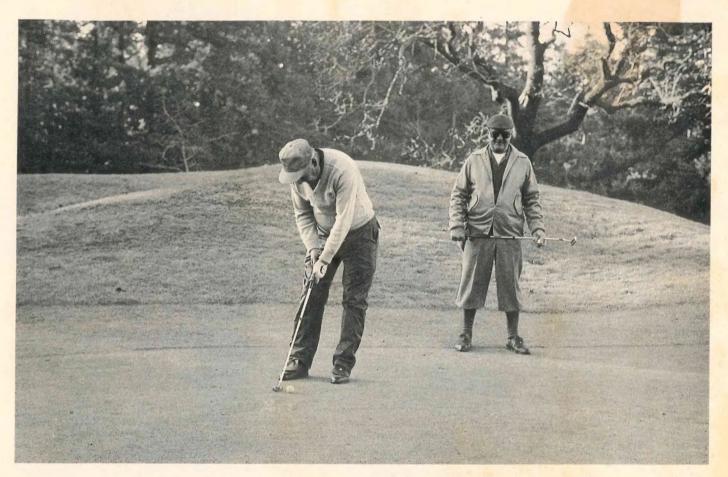

In this important exhibition, Emily Carr is accorded the kind of recognition she richly deserved but seldom received during her lifetime in Victoria.

After A Hundred Years, Golf Is More Popular Than Ever

ancouver Island holds fast to its reputation for having more golf courses per square mile than any other region in British Columbia.

In Greater Victoria, there are 15 locations for golfers to pursue their favourite pastime. Visitors are welcome at most courses; after all, tourists have been coming to our island to play golf since 1906 (and perhaps even earlier!)

It is reported that golf was brought to Victoria and Vancouver Island by one Wastie Green, some time in the early 1880's. Mr. Green brought his mashies and niblicks and had them displayed in a stationer's shop window in the city with a sign reading "These golf sticks - the national game of Scotland." (Whatever happened to hurling and curling, I wonder?)

The earliest golf links to be established in Greater Victoria were at Macaulay Point in Esquimalt. Two Royal Marine Artillery officers set up a 9-hole course in 1887. It remained in active use until the 1920's. From this humble beginning was established the Uplands Golf Club which was located (and is still) on Cadboro Bay Road.

In 1893, Sir Richard Musgrave of Ireland, an officer of Her Majesty Queen Victoria's Royal Navy, founded the Victoria Golf Club. Its backdrop of ocean and distant mountains provides an unusually beautiful setting.

James Dunsmuir, son of coal baron Robert Dunsmuir (builder of Craigdarroch Castle), donated part of his estates at Colwood to construct another golf course in 1913. Under the gracious patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales (later King George V), it became the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club. An 18-hole course, it enjoys a location of heritage oaks and giant Douglas firs.

The newest addition in Greater Victoria is the Olympic View Golf Course, straddling three municipalities (Langford, Colwood and Metchosin) in the Western communities. This beautiful public course was opened in May 1990 and gained immediate acceptance with both residents and visitors.
